Prairie Scene Festival comes to a close

Playing classic tunes as well as pieces from the album they released last year, Randy Bachman and Fred Turner seem to have picked up where they left off in the '70s with hard-driving songs that speak to youth, the working class and the need to crank up the radio.

The federal government is saying little about a video of a Canadian captured by the Taliban during a trip to central Afghanistan.

Foreign Affairs spokeswoman Lisa Monette says the department is aware of the video released yesterday of Colin Rutherford, 26, of Toronto.

In an accompanying email, the Taliban threatened to put Rutherford on trial for espionage if Canada does not meet its demands. Taliban spokesman Zabiullah Mujahid did not list the demands, saying the Canadian government was aware of what the Taliban want.

In February, Foreign Affairs said Rutherford went missing after travelling to the country as a tourist,

Urban walk reveals new facets of the city

She passes through the courtyards in the ByWard Market every day to go to the school, but Angela Plant didn't know until yesterday that they were designed as corridors leading to the Notre Dame Basilica on Sussex Drive.

That was just one of the discoveries for Plant and about 25 others who participated in yesterday's Jane's Walk in honour of American urban planning guru, Jane Jacobs.

"I really agree with Jane Jacobs and the idea that your city is meant to be for you and you should appreciate what's going on around you because it's your living environment," Plant said.

Local architect, Barry Padolsky, led the group tour as he discussed the past of landmarks such as the ByWard Market building and the Market Media Mall, as well as the future of what a pedestrian mall might look like on the north end of William Street. His one hour tour challenged people to think about how Ottawa should grow, and what Jacobs might have envisaged for the city. JOE LOFARO

Instead of bringing flowers to mom on Mother's Day, they brought Mom to the flowers.

Families came to the Tulip Festival yesterday at Major's Hill Park to enjoy the sunny weather, snap photos of the flowers and spend time with mom.

"We've been coming here on Mother's Day the last couple of years," said Elisabeth Mertens. She and her daughter Emma, 22 months, went to the festival with five other members of their family to celebrate Mother's Day.

The Lai family drove all the way from Mississauga because their mom, Joy, loves flowers and it was her birthday

"I said the only thing I want for my birthday and Mother's Day is to come here and see the tulips," she said.

For Lisa Smith, celebrating Mother's Day is more about her kids, five-year-old Rowan and three-year-old Payton, than her.

"They were so excited to give me the stuff that they'd made and see my reaction," she said.

The Canadian Tulip Festival is on at Major's Hill Park and Commissioner's Park until May 23. For more information, visit www.tulipfestival.ca.

Search for B.C. man continues in Nevada

- ▶ Missing man's wife survives 7 weeks in wilderness
- ▶ Relied on snow, trail mix to stay alive

Sheriff's deputies searched for the husband of a Penticton, B.C., woman who survived for seven weeks after they became stranded in remote mountains in Nevada, holding out hope that he could still be alive.

Rita Chretien, 56, told investigators the last she saw of Albert Chretien, 59, was on March 22, when he set off for help on foot with a GPS unit three days after their van got stuck in

Hundreds of boys off to school

Not a single kid or teacher showed up when the eight-room school in Salavat, Afghanistan, opened about a month ago. "The insurgents told us, 'Don't go to the school. If you guys go, we will cut off your ears,'" says one boy. The Taliban have long opposed secular education, arguing it corrupts the mind. But each morning now, boys and teens head to the school for the first formal education of their lives.

Bin Laden's wives on U.S. radar

The United States wants access to three widows of Osama bin Laden being held by Pakistani authorities to help answer questions about whether any officials knew the al-Qaida chief was living in the country, a U.S. official said.

Information from the three women left behind in the house after American commandos killed bin Laden could also reveal his day-to-day life, what he has done since the invasion of Afghanistan in 2001 and the workings of al-Qaida. Several children were taken into custody, some believed to be bin Laden's.

Religious riots in Egypt turn deadly

► Residents say police are doing nothing to intervene

Relations between Egypt's Muslims and Christians degenerated to a new low yesterday after riots overnight left 12 people dead and a church burned.

The attack on the church was the latest sign of assertiveness by an extreme, ultraconservative movement of Muslims, known as Salafis, whose hostility toward Coptic Christians recently has met with little interference from the country's military rulers.

The violence erupted late Saturday with Muslims and Christians pelting each other with stones in another part of Cairo.

The bloodshed began after news spread that a Christian woman who married a Muslim had been abducted and was being kept in a church against her will.

City breakdown

Seasonally adjusted April unemployment rates for five major cities (previous month in parentheses):

- ▶ Ottawa: 6.3 per cent (6.5 per cent)
- ▶ St. John's, N.L.: 5.7 (6.5)
- ▶ Montreal: 8.0 (8.1)
- ▶ Toronto: 8.5 (8.5)
- ▶ Vancouver: 8.4 (8.2)

Lost jobs regained: StatsCan

Canada's employment recovery is almost complete after a strong April added 58,300 new jobs, enough to finally lift full-time work back to pre-recession peaks. In an unexpected twist, almost all the jobs — 54,800 — were created in Ontario, whereas in the rest of the country employment was mostly flat.

The overall unemployment rate fell one-tenth of a point to 7.6 per cent, matching the lowest level since the early months of the 2008 recession, when it peaked at 8.7 per cent. The weak spot was that most, 41,100, were part-time jobs.

Even so, the addition of 17,200 full-time employees was almost enough to match economists' expectations for all workers, though total hours remained slightly under the pre-recession peak.

Traders eye U.S. economy

▶ That, and Canadian company earnings, seen as bellwether of economic health, ongoing recovery

After a steep decline last week that saw the Toronto stock exchange lose most of its gains since the start of the year, investors are expected to cast a wary eye on this week's U.S. economic reports.

Among the numbers coming out this week will be April figures on retail sales, consumer prices and consumer confidence, all of which will point to how the world's largest economy is faring in the second quarter.

Traders will also be focused on first-quarter reports from Canadian companies, including Tim Hortons, Lundin Mining, Iamgold Corp. and Cana-

About half of the 248 companies that make up the TSX composite index have reported earnings so far this season. A majority, 39 out of 69, beat analysts' expectations, with 23 missing.

"It's certainly positive, but I find that the big picture is really the overall sentiment," said Jennifer Dowty, portfolio manager for Manulife Asset Management. "You can have a company that reports reasonable numbers, but if the whole market is in a downdraft and no one wants to step in and buy, the upside potential may be capped."

FEW SAINTS IN OTTAWA'S HISTORY

URBAN COMPASS

STEVE COLLINS
METRO OTTAWA

The Laurier Bridge, which crosses the canal near city hall, bears a plaque dedicated to the Hon. J.I. Tarte.

Uh, who? Fair question. Joseph-Israel Tarte was Wilfrid Laurier's minister of public works from 1896 to 1902, and point man on dispensing government pork and patronage to the Liberal faithful in Quebec. "Elections," he famously said, "are not won by prayers."

Many might question why this pioneer of the dark underbelly of our politics has his name on our bridge, but we're accustomed to living politicians plastering the names of dead ones on our streets, buildings and bridges, perhaps hoping future politicians will do the same for them. None are saints — we don't name churches after them — and numerous of the less than reputable have left their mark on Ottawa.

"This stance oversimplifies both our history and the people who made it. (Charlotte) Whitton was a notable mayor. She was also grotesquely wrong on an important question of her day ..."

Which brings us to the proposed naming of a new city archive building after Charlotte Whitton, who served as Ottawa's first female mayor from 1951-56 and again from 1960-64. She is credited with modernizing the city's public service, pushing for low-cost housing and, finally, after decades of dithering by the men who preceded her, building a new city hall. The old one had burned down in 1931.

"Whatever women do they must do twice as well as men to be thought half as good," the trail-blazing mayor memorably quipped. "Luckily, this is not difficult."

As a member of the Canadian National Committee on Refugees, Whitton also successfully lobbied to shut Canada's doors to European Jews fleeing the Nazis. Those for whom Whitton's evident anti-Semitism outweighs her accomplishments oppose any honours for her.

This stance oversimplifies both our history and the people who made it. Whitton was a notable mayor. She was also grotesquely wrong on an important question of her day, but she was hardly the only one. It was Mackenzie King's government that ultimately turned the Jewish refugees away. There's a bridge over the canal named for him, too.

The Famous Five, crusaders for women's suffrage, are honoured with a statue on Parliament Hill, despite the obscene positions some of them took on non-white immigration and eugenics.

The new library and archives will be a repository for Ottawa's history, and there would be irony in either glossing over Whitton's bigotry or sanitizing the record by wiping her name from city facilities.

If we name the building after Whitton, it shouldn't be an unalloyed honour, but an honest commemoration of her achievements and flaws.

AMSTERDAM, NETHERLANDS. Denmark earns the biggest share of its national revenue from producing windmills and other clean technologies, the United States is rapidly expanding its clean-tech sector, but no country can match China's pace of growth, according to a new report obtained by The Associated Press.

China's production of green technologies has grown by a remarkable 77 per cent per year, according to the report, which was commissioned by the World Wildlife Fund for Nature and which will be unveiled today at an industry conference in Amsterdam.

Denmark derives 3.1 per cent of its gross domestic product from renewable energy technology and energy efficiency, or about $9.4 billion US, the report said. China is the largest producer in money terms, earning more than $64 billion, or 1.4 per cent of its gross domestic product.

The U.S. ranks 17th in the production of clean technologies with 0.3 per cent of GDP, or $45 billion.

About 350 couples in Bolivia were married according to Indian customs and traditions in a colourful Andean mass wedding with President Evo Morales presiding as best man.

Saturday's ceremony was held at a colosseum in La Paz, the capital, that was adorned with large white flowers and indigenous ban-

Indian religious leaders presided over the wedding as did symbolically Pachamama — the earth deity of the Aymara and Quechua races of Bolivia's highlands Indians.

And Morales gave a speech to the couples, who crowded the arena's floor wearing multicoloured native ponchos and hats.

Before the ceremony, each couple married in a civil ceremony.

Seinfeld discovers the world wide web

► Famous comedian decides it's time to get online ► Why now is the perfect time to launch his unique website — and it has nothing to do with flaunting his past fashion choices

METRO WORLD NEWS

Most working comedians know the importance of having a web presence to list upcoming events, promotional material, and hopefully develop a much-needed fan base. But when you're a comic on the level of Jerry Seinfeld, do you really need a way to promote yourself? Well, yes — just in a different way.

"I wanted a very restricted concept; I didn't want to have a site with like mugs t-shirts, concert dates. I find that annoying," he says about how his new site, jerryseinfeld.com, will be different. "I just couldn't wait any longer and I finally came up with an idea that I liked."

Instead, the site, which launched on Friday, is a repository of nearly every recorded comedy appearance from Seinfeld — a career that spans 36 years. One of Friday's introductory clips was from his first time on The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson in 1981 — posted 30 years to the day.

Seinfeld, who is very ► Jerry Seinfeld has launched a website, jerryseinfeld.com, that will have clips of his old performances.

hands-on with the site, felt it was important not to post all clips at once (there are more than 1,000). Rather, he will pick three a day to profile.

"I'm almost more proud of the fashion than I am of the comedy," he quips about digging deep into his archives. "My fashion choices were so good, you are not even going to notice the clothes. In the '70s and '80s I look good — it's the '90s where my choices start to get questionable."

A comedian through and through — he shrugged off questions about acting in any new movies or TV shows ("acting is for people who don't have anything to say") — he told us about sneaking into New York comedy clubs every few weeks to keep honing his act before he tours. In fact, one reason for launching jerryseinfeld.com is to attract a younger fan base.

"This site is really about my attempt to cultivate the world of stand-up comedy with young people," he says with a slight Seinfeld-smirk. "The same way the skinheads and Klu Klux Klan do — you gotta get them indoctrinated young. So really, I'm taking a page from their book."

Branagh inspired by his actor Hopkins

After 30 years in film as an actor and director, Kenneth Branagh is right where he should be. As his latest directorial effort, Thor, hit theatres Friday, the 50-year-old Branagh said his experience on both sides of the camera is lining up perfectly with his appetite, which inspires a new enthusiasm for each craft.

"It's like returning to when I was 16 and first did a school play and thought,

'Oh, this is what I should do. This is what I'm supposed to do,'" he said. "Somehow I feel as though, at least for this little tiny moment in my life perhaps, I've landed back in some moment where I feel, if nothing else, it's right what I'm doing. For me," he said.

Branagh commanded a cast that included Oscar winners Natalie Portman and Anthony Hopkins in Thor. Then, while editing and putting the finishing touches on the film, he stole away to play Lawrence Olivier opposite Michelle Williams' Marilyn Monroe in the indie flick My Week With Marilyn.

Playing such a weighty role during Thor post-production "was something of a stretch, I have to tell you," Branagh said.

But Branagh said he delighted in the experience.

"I ran at it with a relish for acting which was borne out of partly, literally seeing Tony Hopkins at work, and the others, but also talking to Tony, who had worked with Olivier himself," Branagh said. "(He) knew him well, and had many war stories, many intimate observations of the way Olivier was, and that to some extent gave me the confidence to try and do it."

Beckham, son in fender-bender

David Beckham was involved in a fender-bender on the freeway in L.A. over the weekend, according to People magazine.

"Mr. Beckham's black Cadillac SUV collided with the rear of a gold Mitsubishi in the carpool lane," a California Highway Patrol spokeswoman says.

The Mitsubishi was reportedly broken down in the carpool lane and not moving when the collision occurred.

The other driver was taken to a hospital to treat minor neck pain, while Beckham and his 12-year-old son, Brooklyn, were uninjured.

LiLo not converting

Reports surfaced late last week that John Travolta was taking Gotti co-star Lindsay Lohan "under his wing," prompting rumours that the troubled starlet was considering becoming a Scientologist.

But sources close to the actress — who started her court-ordered community service over the weekend — insist the rumors are false, according to TMZ.

The sources say Lohan has no plans to join the controversial church and hasn't been invited to visit by any current members.

Lohan reportedly has nothing against Scientology but was raised Catholic and plans to stay that way.

The gender bender

- ▶ Today is Pink Toenail Day for families who promote modern interpretations of gender roles
- ▶ A controversial J. Crew ad inspired the day by celebrating a boy's love of the colour pink

If a girl wants to try her hand at baseball or ice hockey, she's likely to be praised as plucky. But if a boy likes the colour pink? Well, that's a toenail of a different colour.

Last month, J. Crew unleashed a furor when a promotion depicted its creative director, Jenna Lyons, painting her five-year-old son Beckett's toenails with pink nail polish. "Lucky for me, I ended up with a boy whose favourite colour is pink," the caption read.

Dr. Keith Ablow, a psychiatrist and regular guest on Fox News, didn't approve.

"It may be fun and games now, Jenna, but at least put some money aside for psychotherapy for the kid," he wrote on Foxnews.com. "This is a dramatic example of the way that our culture is being encouraged to abandon all trappings of gender identity."

In fact, Lyons and her son had stepped on a cultural land mine. Gender stereotypes for America's children are less rigid than in the past, but they remain a pervasive part of popular culture and a benchmark for parents. Moreover, the changes in recent decades have been more dramatic for girls than boys.

So Ablow quickly found support. One Million Moms, an offshoot of the conservative American Family Association, urged followers to write protest letters to J. Crew and asserted that "nontraditional activities ... can be destructive and damaging to a child's identity and self-esteem."

Just as quickly, there was a backlash from people who liked Beckett's pink toenails. Hundreds of people accepted a Facebook invitation to join "Pink Toenail Polish Day" on Monday, and Anne Fausto-Sterling, a professor of biology and gender studies at Brown University, urged Lyons' critics to "take a deep breath" and not worry if kids don't always fit a "cardboard cutout stereotype of gender roles."

"Kids explore, sample, test and learn," she wrote in a Psychology Today blog. "They should have the freedom to do this and the strength to grow into interesting human beings."

How 'sexing up' young girls makes them feel 'grown up'

CHRIS YOUNG/ THE CANADIAN PRESS

From suggestive ads to skin-baring magazine covers, there is no shortage of provocative imagery showcasing women in a sexual manner in a bid to raise eyebrows and boost bottom lines.

But such depictions are also reaching a younger, impressionable audience.

A U.S. retail chain recently added fuel to the long-simmering debate surrounding products and imagery of a sexually suggestive nature being marketed towards girls.

In March, Abercrombie & Fitch made headlines after featuring push-up bikini tops for girls in the spring line of its children's label. Amid the uproar, Abercrombie Kids announced it would continue to sell the Ashley swimsuit which it recategorized as "padded," stating on its Facebook page the label agreed with those who said it was best "suited" for girls age 12 and older.

gists," said Lyn Mikel Brown, co-creator of Hardy Girls Healthy Women, a non-profit organization dedicated to the health and well-being of girls and women.

"It's not so much they want sexy products, but they want to be different from their parents. They want to fit in, be cool, be hip.

"And frankly, I think they really use the sexualization stuff because it does upset parents and because this is a way young girls can say: 'I'm grown up.'" Brown delivered a keynote address on the sexualization of girls in media in Toronto where she spoke extensively about the "sexing up" of female athletes and the sexualization of products geared towards female consumers.

Brown, pointed to young child stars like Miley Cyrus and Lindsay Lohan who became more sexualized as they moved towards adulthood.

Add Italian flavour to your life

► Try this Asian-Italian take on spinach, goat cheese and roasted pepper cannelloni

East and West combine for these cannelloni, which are made by rolling a very Italian-style filling of spinach, cheese, mushrooms and roasted red peppers in Asian-style egg roll wrappers.

Ricotta cheese combined with tangy goat cheese gives the filling some bite, but if you prefer you can use all ricotta for milder results.

Here we've called for jarred marinara sauce as a convenience, but by all means use homemade sauce if you have it.

Look for fresh egg roll wrappers in the produce aisle (often near the tofu) of most supermarkets, or purchase them at Asian specialty markets.

Preparation:

1 Spread 1/2 cup (125 mL) of the marinara sauce in bottom of 13 x 9 inch (3.5 L) baking dish; set aside.

2 In bowl, using a fork, mix together ricotta, goat cheese, parsley, basil and cornstarch until well combined. Season with salt and pepper.

3 Lay an egg roll wrapper on work surface. In a strip along one edge, spoon about 1/4 cup (60 mL) of the cheese mixture. Top with a bit of the spinach, roasted peppers and mushrooms.

4 Roll wrapper into a tube around the fillings, moistening the edge with water and pressing it firmly

5 Pour remaining marinara over cannelloni, to cover completely. Bake in 375 F (190 C) oven for 30 minutes. Sprinkle with Parmesan and bake for 5 to 10 minutes until golden.

Ingredients :

- 3 cups (750 mL) jarred marinara sauce, divided
- 1 1/2 cups (375 mL) part-skim ricotta cheese
- 4 oz (125 g) soft goat cheese
- 2 tbsp (30 mL) chopped fresh flat-leaf parsley
- 2 tbsp (30 mL) chopped fresh basil
- 1 tbsp (15 mL) cornstarch
- Salt and pepper
- 10 egg roll wrappers (6-inch/15 cm)
- 1 1/2 cups (375 mL) baby spinach
- 1 jar (12 oz/340 mL) roasted red peppers, drained and cut into (1/2-inch/1 cm) wide strips

Making green moves

► Selecting eco-friendly moving companies and what services they offer

BEN KNIGHT
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Packing everything you own into boxes and moving from one home to another is one of the most chaotic, disruptive times in anybody's life. If ever there's a day to forget all about the environment, it's the day you move.

Intriguingly, Canada's

biggest and oldest moving companies don't agree. Mayflower Canada, United Van Lines and many others now offer helpful, inexpensive green options to help you tread softly on the planet while moving to your new home.

"Moving, historically, has not been anything that's been environmentally friendly," says Lisa Hulet, vice-president of marketing for Mayflower Canada. "A lot of customers didn't know there were alternatives."

Mayflower launched its Go Green program late in 2009.

Their trucks don't idle and conserve gas by not speeding.

The company also offers a range of useful, eco-friendly services to make the process cleaner.

"Before the truck even arrives, the moving consultant would go into the customer's house and talk about what they need to move, and what stuff they don't want to move," Hulet explains.

"We have a partnership that can safely remove all your old electronics in an environmentally friendly manner."

Mayflower has forged an alliance with disposal company 1-800-Got-Junk, for example, and 80 per cent of its pickups are recycled, or distributed to charities.

"It's about educating the consumer — and the movers themselves — to offer more environmental best practices," Hulet notes. "For the customer, it's about educating them before the moving truck even comes to the door."

There was a blinding flash of light and a loud explosion.

ABC news anchor Bob Woodruff's life changed in an instant.

In Iraq to report on U.S. troops in 2006, Woodruff was in an armoured vehicle when a roadside bomb went off leaving him with serious head injuries.

In a medically induced coma for 36 days, the recovery was long and tortuous as he willed his damaged brain to heal and struggled to speak again.

Now back at work at ABC as a correspondent, Bob Woodruff is coming to Canada to tell his story at the Ability and Beyond Gala in aid of March of Dimes.

"Recovery is a difficult road but don't ever give up. Lives definitely change but sometimes for the better.

"If things don't work out the way you thought, find another way or use a different strategy. It's not easy. Just keep thinking and planning," said the reporter.

I ask Mr. Woodruff for a final thought and the words come quickly from the man who has been to war and fought a personal medical battle.

"Never surrender."

► News anchor Bob Woodruff had been working for ABC for nearly 10 years when he was critically injured in Iraq.

How to handle the home stretch

► Keeping kids on track in their final months of school is all about accomodation ► Bribes ain't gonna work

RICHARD WOODBURY
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

With summer vacation visible and on the horizon, it can be tough for teens to maintain focus on their studies during the home stretch.

"It's a huge problem this time of year," says Judy Arnall, a speaker and best-selling author from Calgary. "The stretch between spring break or the Easter holidays and the end of June is probably the hardest one because the weather is getting nicer and kids want to be outside more."

For parents looking to help their kids break out of this funk, Arnall says parents must show empathy and an understanding of ► Plot a plan of action with your teen rather than presenting them with a hit-the-books bribe.

Active learning

For teens looking to regain focus, exercise is one way of getting it:

- "Exercise releases all those endorphins and hormones to the brain and does put people in a better mood," says Judy Arnall, a speaker and best-selling author.
- Whether it's a walk around the block or a game of soccer, it's important for teens to get exercise through their preferred activity.
- If teens can't focus while studying, they should take a break. Arnall says it will get their mind off the topic at hand and they will return to their studies with much clearer focus.

what their kids are going through.

"The parent's role is to show empathy and to facilitate problem solving with their teens," she says.

This requires parents to be flexible and accommodating with what their teens feel they need to do to succeed.

Arnall also recommends parents map out a plan with their kids and break it down into small chunks so that what lies ahead doesn't seem so daunting.

Even if there are disappointing academic results, parents must continue to be encouraging.

"It's important for parents to be very positive, to really appreciate what the students have done right," says Mark Federman, an education speaker from Toronto.

He says it's common for parents to focus solely on the results of a test or paper and say things like work harder or study harder. He cautions that this is not the right approach.

"The student perceives this as punishment, even though the parent may intend it as encouragement," says Federman.

This is why he encourages parents to highlight the positives because it will help boost their teen's self-esteem.

One other possible way of motivating them is through offering incentives, but this isn't a great idea.

Arnall says it sets up an expectation and a sense of entitlement Federman isn't a fan either.

"My philosophy is extrinsic motivators only work to a very limited degree because with carrots and sticks, you inevitably need bigger sticks and sweeter carrots," he says. "It's a really bad habit for people to get into to providing these extrinsic motivators."

This organization CAREs for nurses

► Agency helps foreign-trained nurses qualify to work in Ontario ► Just under 10 per cent of Ontario nurses trained outside the country

All that Lia Musetti wanted was to be a Registered Nurse in Ontario. But she was convinced it would never, ever happen.

The 49-year-old RN from Sao Paulo, Brazil immigrated to Toronto in 1996 and, on at least three occasions, ordered a package from the College of Nurses of Ontario about how to upgrade her education.

Every time, she would look at the pile of papers and shake her head dismally.

"It seemed hard, almost impossible."

Then in 2004, Musetti decided she had to get back into nursing and signed up for a two-year Registered Practical Nursing program at George Brown College.

But after two years of practising, she realized her heart wasn't in it — she wanted to be an RN.

She mustered the courage and finally started the process to get her license in Ontario.

It wasn't easy: the College of Nurses wanted her to take 17 credits. Musetti was on the verge of giving up on her dream forever when she heard about the Creating Access to Regulated Employment, better known by its acronym CARE.

In the end, she took three credits and was helped with exam preparation.

Within months, she had cleared all her exams and now works for St. Elizabeth Healthcare as a community nurse.

"I love it and I couldn't have done it without CARE," she says.

Almost 10 per cent of the province's registered nurses and practical nurses received their initial training outside Canada.

CARE was launched in 2001 to help them get accredited to work here.

Initially funded through a grant from the Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities, it now receives money from Citizenship and Immigra-

"CARE helps navigate the system so that these internationally educated nurses have greater chances of becoming successful in a reasonable period of time," says Ramji.

The amount of time it takes the nurses to get licensed in Ontario depends on their nursing education and experience.

"CARE doesn't have any control over that," says Ramji.

The college does the assessment and tells them what they need to do.

Some complete the process in as few as four months, but most take about 18 to 20 months.

Bombers select top linebacker in CFL draft

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers selected St. Francis Xavier linebacker Henoc Muamba first overall in the CFL Canadian college draft yesterday.

The six-foot, 230-pound Muamba was Canadian university football's top defensive player last season.

But the Mississauga, Ont., native is expected to contribute immediately on Winnipeg's special teams as he learns the nuances of the Bombers defence.

Winnipeg secured the first overall selection for the first time since 1975 after posting a league-worst 4-14 record last year.

The move wasn't a surprise as Muamba was in Winnipeg yesterday so the CFL club could unveil its first overall pick in the Manitoba capital.

"I'm excited," Muamba told TSN. "I'm ready to go back to work and make an impact on the team."

The Edmonton Eskimos followed by taking Rice offensive lineman Scott Mitchell at No. 2.

The six-foot-five, 295-pound Mitchell, a Montreal native who grew up in Ottawa, was the top-ranked draft prospect by the CFL's Scouting Bureau and had been mentioned as a first-overall candidate.

The Calgary Stampeders moved up to No. 3 in a trade with the B.C. Lions and selected Calgary Dinos receiver Anthony Parker.

The six-foot-two, 215-pound Parker struggled mightily in Calgary's 29-2 Vanier Cup loss to Laval but bounced back with a stellar showing at the CFL's evaluation camp.

Calgary head coach and GM John Hufnagel said Parker has been on his radar screen for some time.

"He has been," Hufnagel said. "There are a lot of quality receivers in the draft and we wanted to make sure we came out of the first round with a receiver."

"We're glad Anthony was available."

► Nashville Predator Joel Ward tries to dig the puck free as Roberto Luongo covers up during Game 5 in Vancouver on Saturday

Canucks hope to avoid a Game 7

► Vancouver has mostly dominated the Predators ► A loss will force Game 7 in another series that the Canucks should have wrapped up earlier

The Nashville Predators will be the opponent when the Vancouver Canucks are forced to play a game they hoped to avoid.

But the team the Canucks don't want beating them tonight in Game 6 of the Western Conference semifinal is themselves.

Vancouver mistakes, turnovers and bad bounces helped give the Predators a 4-3 victory Saturday that allowed Nashville to stay alive in the playoffs. The Canucks lead the series 3-2, but know they must reduce their errors to avoid a Game 7 back in Vancouver Wednesday.

"We have to make sure that one mistake doesn't turn into two," Ryan Kesler said through swollen lips prior to the Canucks boarding an airplane yesterday for the long flight to Nashville.

"It's a game of mistakes out there. You are going to make mistakes, no one is perfect. For us, we have to try and eliminate the mistakes. Make one, not two."

Kesler lost a tooth and needed stitches to close a gash on his chin after being hit in the face with a puck Saturday. He returned to score his second goal of the night in a losing cause.

The gritty centre has been the best Canuck in the playoffs. He's scored five goals in the last three games and has been a dominating physical force.

The Predators return home believing they can still advance to the next round of the playoffs.

"We knew we weren't

"We made mistakes and it cost us. It's all about us. When we are playing our game, and executing, we usually have good results."

ROBERTO LUONGO

going to quit and it's far from over," said defence-man Shea Weber. "They've got to come out with their best effort next game and we've got to be ready."

Mavs sweep Jackson into retirement

So long, Phil. So long, chances for another Lakers three-peat.

Hello, Western Conference finals for Dirk Nowitzki and the Dallas Mavericks.

Jason Terry tied an NBA post-season record with nine three-pointers and the Mavericks matched a league playoff mark with 20 threes on their way to a 122-86 victory over the Lakers yesterday and a sweep of their second-round series against the most successful coach in NBA history and the two-time defending champions.

Phil Jackson left the court with a tight smile, accepting hugs and handshakes from Dallas coach Rick Carlisle, Jason Kidd and Mark Cuban. It was the first time he'd been swept in his 21 post-seasons on the sideline. It hadn't happened to Bryant and the Lakers since 1999, the year before the Zen Master arrived in L.A.

While Jackson, 65, would have preferred going out with a 12th title — bundled neatly in four three-peats — this exit does nothing to tarnish his legacy.
